

“The Treasurarian.”

VOL. III. No. 1.

APRIL, 1925.

EDITORIAL.

The Magazine is this time somewhat smaller than usual. This is due to shortage of cash rather than to lack of copy. The O.T.S. has helped us nobly with the last two numbers, but unfortunately the Society does not possess the capital of a Henry Ford, and just now its funds are at a rather low ebb.

We hope this state of affairs is only a passing phase, for without the generous support of our Old Boy readers the Magazine cannot be made to pay its way.

The news from Mr Lacey in Switzerland has continued satisfactory. He is returning to England at Easter and we sincerely trust that he will then be able to report a complete cure.

The term which is now drawing to its close has been a short and singularly uneventful one. For some the monotony has been relieved by a bout of mumps, but to those who have been denied this little diversion the time must have passed very quietly.

This is, however, essentially the “work” term, and it is to be hoped there are many who will be able to look back on it with a clear conscience, knowing that they can point to “something attempted, something done.” School time is of course largely a seed time; what is sown to-day bears its fruit in the future. Unfortunately so many people are like the small boy beginning gardening; they want to dig the seeds up every day to see how they are getting on.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Capt. Chambers, who came a year ago to teach French during the absence of Mr. Lacey, has obtained an appointment on the staff of the Queen Elizabeth's College, Guernsey. We are sorry to lose Capt. Chambers and we appreciate the good work he has done and the help he has given to the Football and Cricket. We wish him
